

Short Report

I am most proud of the cards that I created under the home and service pages. These cards lead to other pages that further describe the specific service that is offered. Some changes I made in response to the feedback I received was changing the layout of the cards on the home screen, changing the footer into three columns, and adding a few more pictures to make things more interesting. Another thing I did was change the layout to be even more simple, as the client wanted things to be simplistic and easy to understand.

The resources that I used to complete the layout of this website are HTML, CSS, SASS, a little Javascript, and Bootstrap. Justification of some of the key design decisions was that I wanted a layout that would make sense to the user and a layout that the client really would enjoy as well. I customized the framework design by changing the layout, the colors, and of course, the text!

Lastly, the advanced features that I incorporated were things like adding in an accordion design, a carousel design, and column layouts to adjust to all three screen sizes. That is, from computer size, to tablet size, to smartphone size. One of the major problems I ran into along the way was where to include the graphics because I did not want to put too many because the client wanted there to be only a few but I am happy with what I ended up choosing!
